The International Conference on Advanced Materials (ICAM 2023), organized by the Department of Chemistry at Women's Christian College on February 21-22, 2023, aimed to explore research scopes related to advanced materials and their modern applications. The conference featured a keynote address by Dr. S. Thayumanavan from the University of Massachusetts, followed by various plenary sessions and innovative presentations from experts like Dr. Paulraj Manidurai and Dr. John Philip. Over the two days, there were 15 oral and 12 poster presentations, fostering rich academic exchange among students, researchers, and faculty. Feedback indicated that the conference successfully met its objectives, promoting advancements in material science.
